American Political Science Review

Editor(s):

Ronald Rogowski, University of California, Los Angeles, USA

Editorial Board Details.

American Political Science Review is political science's premier scholarly research journal, providing peer-reviewed articles and review essays from subfields throughout the discipline. Areas covered include political theory, American politics, public policy, public administration, comparative politics, and international relations. APSR has published continuously since 1906, and will publish its centennial issue in November 2006. The centennial issue will contain a special section, devoted to considerations of the evolution of political science, which will be an extra feature to the regular complement of research articles.

American Political Science Review* is sold ONLY as part of a joint subscription with Perspectives on Politics and PS: Political Science & Politics.

Published for the American Political Science Association

Abstract

Breast cancer and its treatments can cause sexual dysfunction in up to 90% of women with the disease. Front line care providers often do not have the time or training to focus on this quality of life issue and the private nature of the topic can prevent women from pursuing help. By setting up a clinic specifically devoted to sexuality issues, breast cancer treatment centers can provide a place to address these issues and help

Abstract: A new topographic database for King George Island, one of the most visited areas in Antarctica, is presented. Data from differential GPS surveys, gained during the summers 1997/98 and 1999/2000, were combined with up to date coastlines from a SPOT satellite image mosaic, and topographic information from maps as well as from the Antarctic Digital Database. A digital terrain model (DTM) was generated using ARC/INFO GIS. From contour lines derived from the DTM and the satellite image mosaic a satellite image map was assembled. Extensive information on data accuracy, the database as well as on the criteria applied to select place names is given in the multilingual map. A lack of accurate topographic information in the eastern part of the island was identified. It was concluded that additional topographic surveying or radar interferometry should

29-publisher pilot for full-text scholarly research

POWERED BY Google

Search

Cambridge University Press is taking part in the CrossRef Search Publisher Pilot, a cross-publisher initiative that allows researchers to search the full-text of scholarly articles. Users carry out searches using the familiar Google interface but the results are limited to the scholarly research content provided by participating publishers.
